...And The Exact Locations Where To Get Them Fast And Cheap!

From: Jonathan D. Cooper

Dear Friend,

When any disaster strikes, there are only two types of people: survivors and victims...

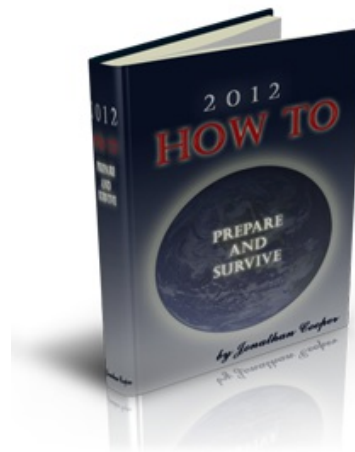

You know, when I say "Disaster" I don't just mean tsunami, earthquake or solar flare, though they may happen as well.

The Wikipedia has an excellent explanation of this term:

"A Disaster Is A Perceived Tragedy, Being Either A Natural Calamity Or Man-Made Catastrophe."

That's right, it can be anything major and catastrophic, including a man-made economic disaster (crisis) or nuclear terrorist attack. The chaos, frustration, lack of immediate help and essential survival supplies make almost all disasters similar...

No doubt, if You're like me, You'd much rather be a survivor. But You can't depend entirely on luck to avoid being a victim!

" L u c k i s w h a t p l a n p e p l e t a k e a s o p p o r t u n i t y "
Seneca (Ancient Roman Philosopher)

It would be foolhardy to believe that You're safe from disasters— whether natural or man-made—simply because you live in a location where disasters have never occurred, or have not occurred in many years—such as the Chicago Fire of 1871, the Johnstown (PA) Flood of 1889, or the San Francisco earthquake of 1906. Keep in mind that I am not talking about the potential threat of 2012 disasters yet...

As recent victims could tell You—if they're still alive to do so—natural or man-made disasters can happen anywhere and at any time. And often without warning!.. The situation in the world and with our planet during recent years is scaring many scientists and have many, many people and governments around the globe make silent preparations.

If You want to survive, then You must adapt to the current situation and start preparations too.

" I t i s n o t t h e s t r o n g e s t t o h f e t d n e e s t h a t i s t h e m o s t a d a p t a b l e t o c "
Charles Darwin

There is a lot of speculation going on in the world about December 21, 2012.

The news media, TV, the Internet and even Hollywood with its new movie are all talking about the coming disasters in 2012.

However, could it be just a coincidence that different civilizations, on different continents, in different times, came up with more-or-less the same final date?

Could it be just a coincidence that Governments all around the world are preparing the escape plans to save the "best" ones?

Could it be just a coincidence that world has been changing during last 10-20 years so fast, like never before in the human history? Unbelievable climate change, hundreds of severe earthquakes, big tsunami, volcano eruptions, increased solar storms, you name it!

But what kind of disasters should we worry about the most? Should we worry about Natural disasters only, or Man-Made ones as well? Should we worry more about the current man-made disaster: the global economy crisis? Will it get worse?

What will happen if natural disasters trigger the collapse of multiple nuclear plants? Did you know that there are 441 nuclear plants worldwide with 103 plants in U.S. alone?

There are so many questions, and so few answers...

So Let's Move Away From All The Hysteria And Talk About Facts:

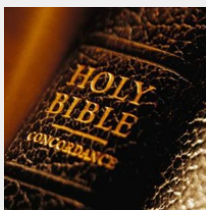

1. The Mayan Calendar. We all heard about it. It was precisely written 3500 years ago, accurately predicted many astronomic events and ends on December 21, 2012... It is believed to be the end-date of the Mesoamerican Long Count calendar, the last cycle of which began 5,123 years ago. On that day the Solar system should enter the center of our Galaxy, where the density of ionized hydrogen is maximum...

2. The Nostradamus Prophecies. Many believe that Nostradamus (1503-1566) accurately predicted numerous significant events in his famous book, The Prophecies. They include the Great Fire of London (1666), the invention of the guillotine, the deaths of several monarchs, details of the French Revolution, the rise of Napoleon and of Hitler, World War II, submarine warfare, military incursions by helicopters and supersonic bombers, 20th Century earthquakes, nuclear holocausts, the assassination of John F. Kennedy, man's landing on the moon, and the advent of AIDS. He did not predict that the world will end on December 21 (which happens to be his birthday) in the year 2012, but he did predict enormous, worldwide natural and man-made disasters in the beginning of the 21st Century...

3. The Holy Bible. The Bible is filled with prophetic statements in regard to the future. It's difficult to say if recent interpretations are correct. But we know that many of the stories in the Bible about ancient catastrophes are based on facts. What happened before can happen again.

In 1984, Pope John Paul II said about the Third Prophecy:

"The catastrophic nature of the third prophecy is so great that millions of lives will be lost..."

He also spoke of "global tidal waves and earthquakes of a terrible magnitude" ...

5. Volcanic Activity. Recent increases in volcanic and seismic activity around the world and especially in Yellowstone Park (Wyoming, U.S.A.) is scaring not only nearby residents and scientists but also all concerned people worldwide...

Yellowstone sits atop a very large caldera of the type formed by a so-called "super volcano." Statistically, this volcano erupts approximately once every 600,000 years. The last one occurred about 640,000 years ago, so the next one is long time overdue...

4. Pole Shift. In recent years, the magnetic North Pole has been drifting across Canada, heading toward Siberia. In addition, the Earth's magnetic field has noticeably weakened, compared to its strength when scientists first measured it in 1845. Based on these findings, some scientists are now certain that a reversal of Earth's magnetic poles is on the move, which could result in significant disaster.

What's more, NASA scientists have calculated that a massive solar storm will reach Earth in 2011-2013, with potentially devastating impact on the magnetic poles. Once this happens, it can trigger the polar shift, which can create a huge electromagnetic impulse destroying all satellites in space and all electronic equipment on Earth

—everything from computers and cell phones to digital cameras, TV and radio networks, ATMs and electronic ignitions. Imagine our world without electronics. Should this happen, we must be prepared with the appropriate tools and supplies in order to survive...

6. Nuclear or Chemical Terrorist Attacks. Unfortunately, this threat continues to exist in many parts of the world. Since 9/11/2001, the fear has increased, and only the naive can ignore it nowadays. While it's difficult or impossible to survive in or near a nuclear or chemical attack, the chances for survival are greater as the distance increases, especially if you have emergency equipment and special supplies on hand. Keep in mind that government assistance, if any, can easily take days, weeks, months or even years, once severe disaster occurs...

7. Worldwide Economic Crisis. Will the world recession continue into 2012? Will there be a new Great Depression? Either way, you must be prepared. If money loses much of its value, then food, gasoline and other supplies will be scarce or become unavailable. If your bank closes and you can't access your funds...if your paychecks stop coming because your employer is no longer in business...or if there are hordes of the unemployed breaking into homes to search for food and water, you'll need to protect yourself, your family and your possessions.

Events in Europe and America in the 1930s showed that social and economic unrest can blow up into a violent, armed, international struggle for survival. In their International Security Report of 2008, researchers from the Oxford Research Group stated that yet another world war could break out in the very near future unless immediate economic changes are made. If the chaos happen in your area, your home will become your fortress. And the supplies you now take for granted—the food you eat, the water you drink and wash with, and the power you use to light, heat and cool your home—will become your essentials...

FACT:

It Is Far, Far Better To Have Everything You Might Need And Not Use It, Than To Ignore All The Warnings And Have Nothing When You DO Need It!

Let's think realistically for the moment. Let's pretend that Nostradamus never existed. No predictions, no comets, no earthquakes, no natural disasters at all.

Unfortunately, people themselves are destroying our world already. The new Global Economic Crisis is so enormous that even some experts predict a New World Great Depression with shortages of almost everything. It happened in the past with the world and it could easily happen again.

Let's face it, we all live in a real world. Most of us work hard at our 9-to-5 jobs and cannot become Super-man or Survivor-man overnight. Most of us cannot relocate to mountains or another country. Most of us are not among these "best" ones the governments will try to save in the underground villages...

However, ALL of us can prepare the most critical supplies and a simple emergency plan.

Most likely the planet will not break apart. But even the "little" damage, which disasters may cause can trigger panic, economic collapse, shortages on almost everything, chaos and violence.

Will you simply wait for it? I hope not.

Will it happen on December 21, 2010? Nobody knows for sure. It can happen anytime, even in the next few months.

Nevertheless, most of us still have great chances of surviving the critical time, if prepared properly. The best part is that most survival supplies, especially the non-edible ones, can be used over and over again in our everyday life.

I have been investigation situation around the year of 2012 for many, many years. I have analyzed huge amount of data and am sure that most people can survive 2012 if properly prepared and with right supplies (not just food or water!).

My Friends Kept Asking Me The Following Questions:

"What shall we prepare for such emergency situations?"

"Where should we get it?"

"How much does it cost?"

"How can I protect my home and my family if violence increases?"

"What if computers are down and I cannot use my credit cards? Shall I keep cash or barter items? What exactly? "

“What do we need if we have to live outdoors for some time?”

“If the telephone system goes out how can we communicate?”

“What equipment and supplies should we get right now, while they are still available?”

“If we buy online, what web stores are reputable and what stores are better to avoid?”

“Can we find any additional discounts or not?”

Unfortunately, the huge amount of time required to search for the needed information and supplies is holding everybody back from doing so and the family stays unprotected...

Let's "Sneak" Inside:

Is 2012 The Last Year Of Mankind?

What Even Media Does Not Want You To Know... (Page 4)

Why is everybody so scared about 2012? It is because 2012 is the year when so many sources predicted that the world, as we know it, will end. Even Hollywood could not ignore it..

...Let’s analyze the main sources, which predict or may cause that Doomsday may come in, or near, the year of 2012 and which we cannot ignore. The information may shock you. I would start with...

Man-Made Disasters And Cataclysms (Page 25)

Man-made disasters can be either intentional or accidental but can cause severe threats to humanity and well-being. The types of disasters are almost endless and can cause panic and massive economic disruption...

... Dirty-Bomb. This threat is one of the largest nowadays. A dirty bomb is not a nuclear bomb. It is a radiological dispersion device (RDD). It is much easier to build, conventional explosive packed with radioactive materials. When such a bomb is exploded, it will disperse radioactive material with radiation, which can cause cancer and death.

...How to survive it? First of all...

3. Make sure to have back-ups of the following 39 documents, ready to be taken in case of emergency: ...

...I would split disasters into three major groups:

- A) Natural Disasters
- B) Terrorist Attacks
- C) Economic Cataclysm (never underestimate it!)

You must be prepared for each type of emergency. The good news is that all of them require some common supplies and knowledge, which makes preparations easier.

However, they also have some special items related only to each group. I will show you...
